Lots Of Fun For Everyone Assured

All Is In Readiness For Wainwright's Carnival

It's just about here! It is here! The big Thanksgiving Carnival of the Wainwright and District Board of Trade (or is it Chamber of Commerce now). Yes, folks, it will be a real big time—a big great big three days of fun and frolic that you will long remember and will thoroughly enjoy. The members of the Board have been busy now for quite a while getting things in shape, and the rink will take on a gala appearance with its booths, lunch counter, dance floor and other attractions.

There'll be a dozen and one ways in which you and your family can enjoy yourselves on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. You'll be able to test your skill, your luck and your judgement—and if you like your patience at Bingo. And the prizes—they'll really be good, for the Board has decided that when you spend your cash you should get something for it!

Admission is free and on top of that you will have a chance on both Friday and Saturday nights to win a big $50. door prize. How's that for value?

Saturday afternoon an added attraction will be a big turkey shoot at the Chartier farm, half a mile west of town on the camp road. There'll be a lot of fine turkeys there for the shooting, so come along and get in the fun.

Dancing Friday night will be from 9:30 to 1:00 and Verne Spake and his Rhythm Kings will provide the music. On Saturday night the dance will be an old-fashioned hoedown with good music.

Another profitable way to test your judgement will be provided by the bean guessing contest. The bean bottle is now at the Co-op. Store and will be at the arena during the carnival. Guesses are 3 for 25c—and the prize is $25.00.

Make it a date. The Wainwright Thanksgiving Carnival, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 13th, 14th and 15th.

Rosewillow W.I.

The meeting of the Rose Willow W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Black with seven members present.

We opened by singing O'Canada followed by the creed and theme song. The minutes were read and adopted.

Several good and helpful hints were given by Mrs. Ott in her paper on Household Economics.

Mrs. Carey read an article called "A remedy from Peru" in which it stated that the water in which potato skins had been boiled in, was one of the best things to bathe swellings with.

The correspondence was read and discussed.

Plans were completed for our dance in Rosedale Hall on October 14.

We finished a quilt and have another nearly finished. We decided to hold a quilting on October 21 at Mrs. Avisons.

Mrs. Smale conducted a very interesting quiz which was won by Mrs. Carey.

A very lovely supper was served by Mrs. Black at the close of the meeting.

The Poppy Campaign

Part 1 of the constitution of The Canadian Legion of the Empire Service League says in part "The Legion shall stand for strong and united comradeship among all those who have served in His Majesty's forces throughout the Empire, so that neither their rights nor their interests shall be forgotten, and so that their welfare and that of their dependents, especially the dependents of the disabled, sick, aged and needy, may be safeguarded."

The latter part of the quotation is especially worthy of note as we draw closer to November 11th and the annual sale of Poppies and Poppy wreaths by the local Legion Branch. True it is that the larger part of this duty has been carried out by bringing pressure to bear on the various governments to see that proper legislation is enacted to give widespread care to those mentioned but there is always the out-of-the-ordinary case and the emergency that no legislation, nor Fund, exists to cover. This is where the Poppy Fund is put to use. Everything from hospital comforts at Christmas time to a square meal and a night's lodging for the down-on-his-luck transient veteran falls into this category, as can emergency care for either veterans or dependents.

As explained in last week's article a separate bank trust account is maintained for returns from the sale of Poppies both at branch and Provincial Command levels. The Provincial Command Poppy Fund can be called upon by any branch when a proper case occurs and where local funds are in sufficient to cover the need. It can easily be seen that it is necessary to maintain this Fund at a sufficiently high level to meet emergencies as they arise. The only way to do this is by selling Poppies, and more Poppies. Every citizen can contribute to this effort by buying a poppy and proudly wearing this emblem on Remembrance Day.

The Wainwright Branch of the Legion has made every effort to make the 1949 campaign a huge success and a large number of wreaths have been sold. However, some extra ones have been ordered and any individual, organization, or place of buisness wishing to obtain one may do so by contacting one of the committee, D. E. Walker, K. Stowell, J. Smith or Ted Wilson.

Town Topics

We heard a rather depressing thing the other day while making the rounds of the main stem. The statement came from the charming wife of one of our new business men in town and went something like this. "Golly, Wainwright certainly is a hard town to get acquainted in. We've been here over a month and I don't know more than two or three of the ladies."

Now far be it from this column to try and run the ladies affairs for them. That has been tried before with rather questionable success. But it does seem too bad that such a condition should exist in a small town like this. One would expect to find it difficult to get acquainted in a city but a small town is usually noted for its friendliness.

The male side of the family is usually well taken care of in his business acquaintances and in his contacts with other men through the Board of Trade, the Legion, the Clubs and Lodges or, if all else fails, in the local pub. However the wife is not so fortunate, and it is a shame because if wifey becomes dissatisfied with her surroundings it often make the outlook for a happy stay in our town rather grim.

With the Army and the oil companies busily engaged in this area it wou1 be a nice thing if the wives could be introduced into some of the local social swirl during their stay here so that they would go away not remembering that Wainwright was that town with the out-door privies where they lived in a trailer or somebody's garage, but rather that it was the town where those nice ladies gave her such a pleasant time. For wives of men who intend to make this their home it is essential that some steps toward introducing them to the other ladies of their particular age groups be taken.

So we venture to suggest very humbly that some ladies who have lived here for a while should take it upon themselves to see that some of these new arrivals are invited out to tea or for bridge, or arrange to have their friends call and welcome these people to our Town. Executives of various ladies clubs might issue invitations for some of them to come to the meetings and get in on the good work that is being done in this district.

Don't let me give you the idea that the male of the species is excused from any comment in this regard. The same thing should go on in his activities even though the men who have arrived recently have an advantage as stated above in making new friends. Small gestures of kindness and neighborliness may be repaid many times over in new contacts and new friendships, and our Town generally will certainly benefit from such a fine spirit.

In closing for the week may we point out that Wainwright has always had the reputation of a "cliquey" town —a town made up of numerous very small groups that are difficult to penetrate, with very few large groups that a new person might wiggle into. Seems to us its time for a change.

How soon "not now" becomes "never!"

Better a good fame than a good face.

Secrets never disclosed are never known.

Farewell Held For P.P.C.L.I. Officers

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ireland, tastefully decorated in the P.P.C.L.I. regimental colors, was the scene of a happy farewell party on Saturday evening to honor Col. Don Cameron and the officers of the Princess Patricias who have completed their present training here and plan to leave the camp on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Ireland's French poodles were also decked out with ribbon bows of the Regiment's colors in honor of the occasion.

A number of local town people were present and the evening was pleasantly spent in dancing and visiting. At midnite a lovely Thanksgiving supper complete with roast turkey and baked ham was served buffet style by the hostess assisted by the ladies. After supper dancing was again resumed until the wee small hours.

Grace Guild Meets

The Grace Guild Group with assisting Ladies' Groups are turning over to the Grace Church Building Fund the sum of two hundred and ten dollars, proceeds of the Rummage Sale and sale of Home Cooking held Oct. 1. Such a successful project could never have been achieved without the co-operative efforts of all members, of our pastor and his wife, and of community stores which contributed new goods so generously. Convenors of work were Mesdames Rattray, Foxall Madill, Symes and Barlow.

General satisfaction over the sale, and expressions of appreciation of assistance received were the key-notes of the meeting held October 5th at the home of Mrs. R. Ganderton, with Mrs. S. Robbie as co-hostess. Plans for the preparation and sale of boxes of fancy cookies, by order, at Xmas time were got under way, with Mrs. B. Pound as convenor. The making of articles for a novelty table for the Christmas bazaar will complete the fall work of the Guild.

Following the devotional led by Mrs. K. Tory, a door-prize contributed by Mrs. E. Dupre was won by Mrs. R. Walker; Mrs. A. Rattray presented a novel game and prize, whose winner was Mrs. J. Davidson. The guild is pleased to welcome two new members to their number, Mrs. Wing and Mrs. E. Nordstrom.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Walker.

GASOLINE TAX CUT ADVOCATED BY A.M.A.

Moves to bring about a reduction of the nine cents a gallon tax and the cost of car license plates are billed to be taken up by the Alberta Motor Association at its next annual meeting, probably Nov. 18 and 19 in Edmonton.

H. R. Chauncey, of Calgary, provincial president, spoke of the need of vigorous action being initiated on these measures when he spoke at a recent meeting of branch directors in Edmonton.

The A.M.A. chief pointed out that in the period between 1922 and 1945, an estimated $23,000,000 had been taken from motorists in this province in the excess of motor revenues over road expenditures. He said it was time the province started to give this money back and this could be done by lowering car license fees, for instance.

Alberta's car plate fees are the highest of any Province and strong demands should be made on the government for a substantial reduction of not less than 25 per cent next March 31.

P.M.S. Decides To Carry On New Organization

A fair turnout was present at the meeting of the P.M.S. held in the Town Hall, on Thursday evening, for the purpose of deciding the fate of the P.M.S. Since the building of the arena interest in the organization seemed to have flagged to such an extent that it was felt that the matter of whether or not to continue the society should be placed before a public meeting.

John Mitchell presided and Kenn Tory acted as secretary, and led off a quite lively discussion of the affairs of the P.M.C. Resulting from the discussions were two motions; one to the effect that some organization be asked to take over the operation of the P.M.C. for the coming season; the other that the various interested organizations in town be asked to send delegates to a meeting to be held later, the purpose of which will be to form a new P.M.S. consisting of these representatives.

It was the definite feeling of those present at the meeting that it would be unwise for the P.M.S. to handle the management of the rink.

The new P.M.S. will devote its attentions to the improvement and completion of the building.

SEVERELY HURT WHEN CAR FALLS OFF JACK

Gerald Evans, of 836-156 Street, Edmonton is in Wainwright Municipal Hospital suffering from a skull fracture, severe shock and cuts and bruises about the head as result of an accident which occurred on the Wainwright-Vermilion Highway about 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. It appears that Mr. Evans was jacking up his car to replace a flat tire when the jack slipped, jamming his head between the wheel and the fender. He was rushed to Wainwright where he was given attention by the doctors of the Clinic.

With him in his car at the time of the accident were his wife, and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Martinson, of Vermilion.

Latest reports are that Mr. Evans is progressing favorably.

Wainwright Army Camp To Expand

Many of the summer contingents of troops have already left the Wainwright military camp, and by the end of this week the camp will be practically vactated. However mid-winter will see another influx of soldiers as the winter training program gets under way about the end of January.

From all we can gather, Wainwright military campt is destined to grow greatly in the next few years. As we all know, it has been designated as a permanent camp, and with the view to an increasing numbr of troops as time goes on, extensive plans have been completed for expanding its facilities.

Among the plans are rumored married living quarters and a dam on the Battle River north of town to provide an adequate water supply.

All summer a number of civilian artisans have been occupied with improvements and additions to the camp's facilities, and we understand that this work will be carried on for a time after its vacation.

Troops leaving Wainwright at this time will return to their permanent headquarters at Calgary.

During the summer, beside units of the permanent army, reserve forces from British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Alberta have also trained at the camp. Even from as far as Manitoba the infantry reserve forces were brought in for their summer training period. Artillery units and engineering units received their training at other centres.

At the camp the men were trained by permanent army officers under the direction of Major General M. H. S. Penhale, C.B.C., G.O.C. of the Western Command.

The training program for next year is expected to follow the pattern of this season, with the men arriving about the end of June.

Big windup of activities for the season was Exercise Highorn under conditions as nearly as possible similating actual wartime activity. The exercise started at Lake Geneva, about 75 miles north west of Vermilion. From that point an army advanced to contact with an inferior and retiring force which gradually withdrew until they arrived at their home camp at Wainwright. Here they started to use live ammunition.

In the operation, which went over quite successfully, about 1,500 men were employed. Tanks and carriers as well as many lighter vehicles and field pieces were used, and a baby bridge (with 40-ton capacity) was erected across the Battle River at night without lights.

Major General Penhale and a number of military observers from Ottawa together with a British Brigadier took a keen interest in the exercise, and much valuable data was gathered from the experiences of the men.

Major Cotton has asked us to express his appreciation of the good public relations which have continued throughout the summer between the the people of the town and distrct and the men. However, he pointed out, recreation facilities are somewhat limited, and it may be found necessary for the army to make more provision for the recreaton of the men at the camp.

Patience is the key of Paradise.

Peace is rarely denied to the peaceful.

RADIO LICENSES HIGH ENOUGH

The Wainwright and District Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture at their meeting Thursday night expressed their agreement with a move instituted by the Vermilion and District Board of Trade to protest the proposed increase in radio license fees.

This is a protest which could be well echoed by every Board of Trade or other organization in the area.

There are many reasons why this increase should not be tolerated. Most of these are illustrated in the following extract from "The Printed Word."

"On a recent Sunday morning, the C.B.C. "Neighbourly News from the Ontario and Quebec Weeklies,' given 'in co-operation with the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association' purported to summarize the views of weekly editors on the question of the C.B.C.'s proposal to have the radio license fee double. One paper was quoted as being in favor, one against and one maybe, thus giving the impression that the weekly editors were about evenly divided.

It is not so. Most weekly papers are opposed to any increase. Most papers, daily and weekly, don't care much for the C.B.C.'s policies in general. And weekly editors accurately reflect views held in their communities.

Not much sympathy can be expressed for the C.B.C. in its poverty. The C.B.C. recently squandered a couple of millions of dollars on an unnecessary extra station at Toronto, already served by its own No. 1 station and a half-dozen other private stations. C.B.C.'s new station, running for a year or so, has the distinction of having the smallest group of listeners of any station around.

C.B.C.'s purpose in spending these millions was to have a mother station for a second network to corral more advertising revenue.

Meanwhile, the purpose for which the C.B.C. was created—to serve the areas of Canada which cannot be served commercially—is neglected. Thousands of radio-license buyers cannot hear C.B.C. stations under most conditions. A system of relays such as was provided in parts of the Rocky Mountains could be provided for less than was spent on the station that so far is a flop at Toronto. If these relays were provided, C.B.C. might not be so poor and at the same time would have a better case for higher tax."

It is not only in the east that expensive duplication indicates generous use of the listeners' money. The new station at Lacombe, Alberta serves territory which had no difficulty in hearing radio entertainment, territory which is already very well served either by existing C.B.C. stations or well established commercial stations.

Sometimes it would appear the wish of the C.B.C. to squeeze out the old established stations which have been giving us service at practically no cost for many years. These private stations pioneered the way, and provided us with radio entertainment when the only interest the government had in the matter was that of regulation, for which the $1.00 license fee paid them well. Through the years these private broadcasters have served us, they have continued to improve their facilities, and today their product compares favorably with any other listening at the public's disposal.

Being strong believers in private enterprise, so long as it is not monopolistic, we cannot see the justice in the C.B.C.'s collecting money under government authority to provide duplicate services which compete with established business . . . at higher cost to the public.

Moreover, a justified 'crab" which many listeners have against the radio license is that so little of its proceeds are used for the purpose of checking up on and eliminating the interference which often makes listening impossible. Radio inspectors, who visit our town occasionally, devote their time almost exclusively to the collection of license fees and to the legal prosecution of those who fail to meet the government's demand in this connection. Their handling of the matter of interference is generally pretty cursory.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This week is Fire Prevention week and as such is worthy of close attention. It may at times seem unnecessary that we should each year ,draw the public's attention to the matter of fire prevention by a specially designated week . . . but so long as fires caused by carelessness (and the majority of fires are definitely preventable) continue to take lives and cause property damage, the matter of fire prevention is one that must be periodically brought to the fore.

The three big causes of fire are still careless smokers, using inflammable liquids for starting fires and children with matches. Not every carelessly dropped cigarette but causes a fire, and not every unextinguished match is dangerous. But familiarity breeds contempt, and the contempt can cause untold damage. Witness to this is the "Noronic" tragedy, one of the great marine disasters of Canada, caused, it is believed, by careless smokers.

That coal oil can that happens to contain gasoline has snuffed out many lives, and snuffed them out amid unspeakable pain. Gasoline is pretty good stuff in its place . . . but its place is not in the kitchen stove or in the heater..

Even coal oil, for these purposes, must be handled with quite a lot of care.

Children and matches do not mix . . . they have no place together. Children with matches are just about as good company as children with butcher knives. Keep them apart and you'll save trouble.

Another important point is to put into practise around your premises the safety precautions which are urged or required by larger centres. Clean chimneys, in a proper state of repair are not just desirable, they are essential. Stove pipes are great places for accumulations of soot, and soot burns very nicely on occasions. Moreover, stove pipes become pretty thin after a period of use, and the replacement of a few of these is much more easily handled than the building of a new home.

Fluff that gathers in thimbles through walls and floors is highly combustible when it has been warmed and dried by it's association with the pipes.

Then there's the ubiquitous rubbish that gathers in basements, wood boxes and other places. Not bad stuff until it starts to burn . . .but then watch it go!

Even with the most careful precautions fire can sometimes get started . . . and then there's the problem of stopping it. It is unnecessary for us to call attention to the fact that it is very much easier to stop when it is in its infancy. But this fact does place on us one requirement which is very often overlooked. We can't all have a fire engine on tap at a moment's notice, but every home and every premises should be provided with some effective, and readily available, type of fire extinguisher.

There are many good commercial extinguishers on the market, some are priced quite reasonably and some are more expensive. Twenty-five dollars for a fire extinguisher may seem a lot of money . . . but twenty five dollar's wouldn't even buy you a good dining room table.

Care and preparedness in the matter of fire pay big dividends. Let's cash in on them!

Joe Rutledge Says

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

WHERE THE MONEY COMES FROM

The recent suggestion that the Federal Government, with the assistance and agreement of the provinces, might help underwrite many useful undertakings in public works has aroused a good deal of gleamy-eyed interest. It's wonderful. But what does it really mean? We can't help remembering that we have been exhorted and taxed for years past to make provision so that when the rainy day came the government might do a lot of umbrella-like spending. But the rainy day hasn't come—not yet at least. Yet already both we and our governments are forgetting those impassioned exhortations.

Even prior to the Federal government's Santa Claus-like hint, there were ample indications that all levels of government were outlining elaborate expenditures with a hopeful eye on Ottawa. Toronto wanted assistance with its subway and other groups wanted subsidies for this and that. The Federal Government was encouraging the public to tempt it to make the Trans-Canada Highway a feasible and comfortable road at a cost of $20 million, and Toronto was making public a civic improvement plan to cost an ultimate $180 million. These things were symptomatic of what is happening everywhere. It seems that there are too many itching pennies in official hands and they, and we, are losing a sense of a wise and protective economy.

After having scrimped and saved and paid exorbitant taxes for years to protect our future, we don't want to start on a reckless spending spree now, however admirable the cause of our spending. We still have an unsolved dollar shortage that is very much the problem of every Canadian citizen. We still have a cold war that, despite its present moderating temperature might easily flame again into disaster. We are still living on a war-time scale and someday we will be getting back to normal, and the transition isn't likely to be too pleasant. So we are not greatly taken with the suggestion that the "go ahead" sign is out with the blessing of all ranks of officialdom. There is danger that all of us will acquire a delusion of prosperity and that is the particular danger of officials who have to spend money that they have not had to earn. Under such circumstances it is hard to remember that governments can be no more prosperous than citizens: that if we, as citizens, can't afford too much in these high-priced days, neither can our municipality or our province or our country. Ours is the only purse that can be drawn upon to meet the obligations that officialdom assumes. Let's not be too free with the "go ahead" signal. Let's always remember that everything has to be paid for, not by distant and impersonal officials and governments, but by us.

SOUTH AFRICA CHURCH ASKS RACIAL JUSTICE

Pietermaritzburg South Africa—The Anglican synod, meeting here recently, adopted a resolution urging white Christians to behave with justice and courtesy towards members of other races.

Canon Hayward Harris, who moved the resolution, said an indication of the attitude of people generally was given in a referendum held in Durban on a proposal that two seats on the city council should be given to Indians. Only about 1,500 Durban citizens voted in favor of the proposal.

Another resolution at the synod urged that there should be adequate representation of non-Europeans in the legislative bodies of South Africa.

Between 1939 and 1947 the number of workers employed in manufacturing in Canada increased by 70 per cent and the amount paid out in wages and salaries increased 181 per cent.

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

by the Canadian Press

A new Ottawa address—24 Sussex street—will soon become a by-word in Canada.

And with the stature of Canada in the international field growing steadily day by day, the address of the permanent home of the Dominion's prime ministers before long may rank with such historic names as 10 Downing street, London, or the White House Washington.

The need for a permanent residence for the holder of the prime minister's office has been expressed countless times by members of all political parties. Decision of the cabinet last week to ask parliament to provide such a residence won instant and unanimous approval.

The Commons promptly applauded Trade Minister Howe's announcement that parliament would be asked to provide a great, grey stone, three-storey mansion as that home. The three opposition leaders expressed whole-hearted approval. The only one not voicing an opinion of the matter was Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, who will be the first to occupy the dwelling.

The prime minister, whose five-room apartment in downtown Ottawa has proved much too small for the heavy burden of entertainment expected of him as head of the country, was not even on hand to express an opinion

The move to provide him with a house was made while he was at Trenton, Ont., taking part in memorial ceremonies held in recognition of the war-time British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Room For Preserves

Just what sort of house the St. Laurents will move into will depend largely on the decisions of an architect the government is hiring to consider repairs and renovations. But one thing is certain—it will have a magnificient view.

The picturesque, 60-year-old mansion once the home of a lumber industrialist, overlooks the Ottawa River and the Gatineau hills of Quebec. Trees are thick around the spacious lawns and the people across the street are the governor-general and his family.

For Mrs. St. Laurent, who once had to store jarred preserves under the bed in the downtown apartment because there was no place else to put them, the new dwelling will provide ample storage room. There is an abundance of cupboards and a great basement.

Canada's decision to provide a permanent home for her prime ministers will solve the St. Laurents' housing problem. But it does just the opposite for the popular Australian legation.

The mansion known as the Edwards home because it was built by the late Senator W. C. Edwards, was expropriated by the government several years ago at a feported cost of $140,000 and leased to the Australian government as headquarters for its high commissioner, Rt. Hon. Francis Forde.

The lease expires Nov. 1 and the St. Laurents probably will move in sometime next spring after renovations are complete.

The Australians, like many a Canadian family, have begun frantically

What's in an egg? The answer is good flavor plus high food value. A single egg contains proteins, fats, iron, phosphorus, calcium and vitamin A. Eggs are easy to cook, can be served in countless ways and are an easily digested food for young and old. Nutritionists say we should eat eggs at least three times a week.

By J. S. ROBBLEE

FROST DAMAGE TO COARSE GRAINS

Seed stocks of Oats and Barley may be hard to get next spring due to the heavy frost in early September. Frost injures the vitality of Oats and Barley and samples should be germination tested before grain is held for seed. No seed can be sold unless it is covered with a seed certificate. Samples of grain should be sent to Plant Products Division, Calgary.

FALL CULTIVATION

Fall cultivation to stubble fields should be shallow and with an implement that will leave as much trash on the surface as possible. Shallow cultivation will bury weed seeds so that they readily germinate early in the spring and a heavy frost will be useful in catching and holding snow. Implements like the one way discer, cultivator, single disc (set on short angle) are useful for fall work and pay big dividends on the following crop.

FALL SEEDING OF GRASSES

Good catches of grass have been obtained in this area by seeding in the fall after the ground temperature has become too cold for germination.

Seed planted in this way will lie over and can make fuller use of early spring moisture. This is becoming a recommended practice for this area for farmers not wanting a nurse crop.

MEDICINE CHEST

Every livestock farmer should have on hand a supply of several medicines for treating farm animals Epsom salts, raw linseed oil, tincture of iodine and a good disinfectant are only a few of the drugs recommended. Just a few days ago the life of a calf was saved by using "blood stopper" which is available at every drug store.

STORAGE OF WINTER VEGETABLES

Farmers and others who have vegetables for household use in the winter, and have suitable storage space in the cellar, should check on their storage facilities to see that everything is in order. There is no secret to the proper winter storage of vegetables says C. E. Ste. Marie, Dominion Experimental Station, L'Assomption, Que., all that is required is plain common sense and the observance of a few simple rules.

Storage space must be adequate, with proper ventilation, and fairly high humidity. If these conditions are lacking, or are faulty, they should be corrected before storing is begun.

Whether the vegetables to be stored are bought or are home grown, only products of good quality are worth storing—those that are sufficiently matured, free from insect or other injuries and diseases.

As a general rule vegetables will keep better and for a longer period if stored in slatted crates or slatted bins to provide ventilation. Losses will be reduced considerably if moisure can be kept at a rather high level, particularly for potatoes, beets and carrots.

The walls and ceiling of the root cellar should be well insulated to prevent fluctuating temperatures and loss of moisture.

Vegetables which are to be stored over winter should not be brought directly from the fields into the storage. The sorting and grading and also the cooling, should be done before storage so that the temperature in the root cellar will not be changed seriously.

FARMER'S ENEMY

Failure to recognize couch grass has resulted in many a farmer's dilemma. If a strange grass in your field has underground stalks have it positively identified. It may be couch.

During 1948 an estimated $50,000,000 was spent on oil exploration and development in Alberta and the figure is expected to be doubled in 1949.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By DR. F. J. GREAMEY, Director, Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Testing Farmers' Seed For 1950

In successful grain crop production no single factor is more important than the use of good seed. The most careful cultivation, even of the best land, will not produce a good crop from poor seed.

Conditions Unfavourable. This year, in many districts, drought second growth, hail and frost will seriously affect the available supply of high quality seed-grain. This means loss to the farmer through reduced yields, lower grades and in many cases, the necessity of buying new seed. In his own interest, every farmer should make sure that the grain he intends to use for seeding purposes in 1950 is satisfactory from the standpoint of germination, purity (freedom of weed seeds) and freedom from smut.

Seed Laboratory. To assist farmers in determining the quality and value of their own grain for seeding purposes the Line Elevator Companies, through their Farm Service Department, operate a first-class seed testing laboratory. For the past ten years, this laboratory has provided a reliable seed testing service to the farmers of Western Canada, free of charge. More than 10,000 prairie farmers made full use of this service last year.

Tests Offered. Again this year, we will undertake to test farmers' seed samples of Wheat, Oats, Barley, Rye and Flax for: (1) Germination. (2) Smut and other seed-borne diseases. (3) Weed seeds. (4) Mechanical seed injury. (5) Purity of variety. The test for varietal purity is, however, confined to seed of wheat and barley.

Seed Samples. Farmers are invited to deliver seed samples (5 ounces of cleaned seed), which are truly representative of the seed lot to be tested, to their nearest Line Elevator Agent. Agents will provide seed envelopes, labels, etc., and forward the samples to Winnipeg for testing.

Warning. Seed tests made by Line Elevators Farm Service are not official government tests. The results of such tests cannot be used legally, when advertising seed for sale. If you want an official government test, send seed samples directly to the Plant Products Division (Seed Laboratory), Winnipeg, Saskatoon or Calgary. ★

WINTER CARE OF THE BROOD SOW

Proper care and feeding of the brood sow during the winter has much to do with the success of the spring litter, says W. J. Cuthbert, Dominion Experimental Station, Prince George, B.C. Expensive and elaborate shelters are not necessary. Even a shelter of poles and straw will suffice if it is sufficiently well built to protect the sow from the weather and is reasonably dry and warm, well ventilated and clean.

The sleeping quarters should be some distance from the feed troughs so that the sow will get the exercise so important to its well-being and to the thriftiness of the young pigs. A sow which becomes too fat through insufficient exercise is likely to produce small litters of weak pigs, and sometimes through clumsiness steps or lies on the pigs.

Good, medium flesh is most desirable in the pregnant brood sow, and the feed should be such as to maintain this condition. Two parts of ground oats and one part each of ground barley and wheat provide a satisfactory grain ration. To this should be added some protein. Skim milk or buttermilk is excellent for this purpose and may be fed at the rate of ten to fifteen pounds per sow daily. However, if these are not available, tankage or a commercial protein mineral supplement should be used at the rate of 8 or 10 per cent of the grain ration.

Minerals are important in the sow's ration, being essential for bone formation in the litter and for other body functions. A mixture of equal parts of ground limestone and iodized salt is usually satisfactory, and may be included in the grain ration at the rate of 2 per cent. In areas where iodine is deficient, it is important that the sow be provided with this mineral in order to prevent the birth of hairless litters. One ounce of potassium iodide crystals may be dissolved in one gallon of water, and a tablespoonful per sow daily of this solution should be mixed in the feed or drinking water. This treatment should commence shortly after the sow is bred.

Vitamins A and D are important and may be obtained either from leafy, green clover or alfalfa hay, or from a good feeding oil such as cod liver oil. Crude cod liver oil may be obtained from a drug store and fed at the rate of one tablespoonful per sow daily throughout pregnancy.

OFF WITH HORNS—THE NEW WAY

Stockmen have long looked for a simple and humane method of stopping horn growth. Such a method has now been claimed to be produced in a laboratory in the United States and used with excellent results.

The new solution, called "Pol," is a mixture of antimony trichloride, salicylic acid and flexible collodion, and is about as simple to use as finger nail polish. The job is done best when the calf is 3 to 10 days old. The hair is clipped around the horn area and the solution applied to the horn button with a small brush. The calf may be released almost immediately as the collodion causes very fast drying with the caustic action continuing under a flexible film which is harmless even if licked by the cow. In three or four weeks the film-like scab drops off leaving a well healed surface and in a short time hair grows over the whole area, with the horns completely destroyed. This method is said to do away with possible injury to calves and to eliminate all danger of fly infection.

LIBRARY NOTES

"DAY OF WRATH" by Phillis Child

The title of this novel is taken from the opening words of Dies Irae, the greatest hymn of the Mediaeval Church, sung on All Souls' Day throughout the seven centuries.

It is the story of a great love in a world that wanted only to hate. It is the story of what happens to simple people trapped and enslaved, body and soul, by their masters, The Great Planners, Leaders, Overseers, Dictators-General.

Man wants so little—a bit of bread, a little love. Here is the story of a young man and a girl, who have faith in life, who have no great plans for the world, do not want to rule or dominate anybody, who desire only to live and love and hand on life to another generation. But they are caught up into the New Order

"The soul that first the body made . . ." And then the sound of the whip was abroad in the land and the state, its total madness reached out to its helpless victims. "It's your souls we want."

There are characters in this great story that you will long remember: Simon Froben, "A Jew may be bitter, but he must not hate"; Anna age-old symbol of woman's deathless passion for giving life at whatever the cost; Martha Stamm, "Well, one must live"; Horst Froehlich, a Storm Trooper, "On his way to the top of the heap."

Simon desired to seize life, to increase it, and to hold it forever. He wanted to make a grain or two of sand remain for ever on the shore of time. He believed that nothing dies if a part of it goes on living.

"AUNT BEL" by Guy McCrone
Sequel to Red Plush

Bel's husband Arthur, a successful cheese merchant, admitted that she was a "Managing kind of body", an apt description of this warm-hearted but slightly scheming lady who supersteady rise in Glasgow social and financial circles.

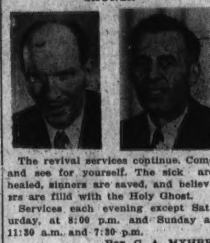

Bel lived for those minor crisis of life which were tests of her generalship, whether they were procuring a substitute organist for a wedding or inveigling her somewhat crusty mother into installing that new-fangled but socially promising instrument, the telephone. She was especially proud of her skill in the demanding art of match-making.

Her many relatives provided a fertile field for Bel's talents. Her son Arthur, and her daughter Isabel, were of marriageable age, though not as tractable as one might wish. Then there was her nephew, the stolid but capable Wil Butler, who was engaged to her niece, Polly McNairn—not much of a match, but better than Jackie McNairn, married to that impossible girl Rosie, who had been "in a shop." Other weddings were in the offing, including one which did not coincide at all with Bel's plans.

The Brady Cooling System Cleaning

LENGTHENS THE LIFE OF YOUR CAR, TRUCK OR TRACTOR

Leo's Service Station is pleased to announce that they have installed the latest and most modern machines to clean automotive cooling systems. The Brady Machine. A mild ½ acid solution unharmful to metal is pumped through the cooling system under pressure, bringing out scale, dirt and grease. The Brady engineers proved the efficiency of their machine by the following procedure.

Our engineers made an interesting experiment, they took four new cars and ran them between fifty and sixty thousand miles under difficult conditions, such as operating in the desert and in the mountains. Two of these cars were cleaned at regular intervals and two of them were not cleaned at all. The two automobiles that were cleaned at the end of this period were in excellent mechanical condition in every respect. In fact, compression was still normal in all cylinders. The two automobiles that were not cleaned were almost completely burned out and required general overhauling. This general overhauling brings up another interesting condition that invariably develops. This condition is as follows:

When a car is overhauled, cylinder walls are rebored and oversize rings put in. So we now have a condition where a motor is what we call tight, and as a result generates more heat than it would do under ordinary circumstances. If the scale that has been developed over miles of driving is still in the engine block and it invariably still is, because until the Brady Machine was developed there was no practical method of cleaning scale from out of the engine blocks, therefore our common sense again tells us that we are even more prone to overheat in this overhauled car, and the car owner has wasted his money, because the same condition that originally caused such increased wear of the parts is still present. An overhaul would be necessary again in a relatively short time.

This formation of scale in an automobile could so almost be compared to a cancer that automotive engineers still stipulate as follows:

1. Cooling systems should be cleaned every five thousand miles or twice a year.

2. 75 percent of mechanical failure in an automotive motor can be directly or indirectly attributed to defective cooling.

If therefore cooling systems were properly cleaned at regular intervals the expense of car maintenance would be brought down to a minimum, and the life of the automobile increased tremendously.

It becomes very apparent that it is a common mistake to just think of cooling system cleaning in the cases of automobiles that are overheating so badly that they start to boil. It should be apparent that all automobiles are overheating in spots due to the reasons set forth above and that proper cooling system cleaning is as important a piece of maintenance as the changing of oil and grease.

By pressure and chemical action the BRADY SYSTEM pumps liquid through the cooling system and does a thorough cleaning job. Under pressure and constantly in motion the mildly acid liquid (not harmful to any metal) thoroughly cleans drit, scum, grease and scale.

FALL CULTIVATION

From now until freeze-up is a critical time for perennial weed control on summerfallow, says G. R. Sterling, Supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control. Cultivation should be spaced two weeks apart until the coming of winter cuts off growth and makes further tillage impracticable. Much of the good work done during the summer can be lost through neglect at this time.

During fall tillage operations, the problem of soil erosion should be kept in mind. Fields that are left with a smooth surface of fine soil are subject to both wind and water erosion. To overcome this, the soil surface should be rigid before winter sets in. Where land is rolling it is advisable to run the ridges on the contour. Ridges up and down the slope make the soil very vulnerable to spring water erosion. Wherever possible, cultivation up and down slopes should be avoided through out the year.

Keep the trash on the surface. With constant cultivation of the fallow during the year there is danger of burying the trash instead of leaving it on top. Shallow cultivation with a one-way disc or cultivator will keep the stubble where it belongs.

POULTRY PARASITES

Check the birds for parasites before removing them to the laying house this fall, advises E. E. Kitchen, Poultry Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture. External parasites can be discovered by examining the skin of the birds at the base of the feathers. Red mites spend most of their time away from the birds, but the northern mite may be found both on the birds and around the laying house. In either case, if the house has been well cleaned, chances of re-infestation will be considerably reduced by carefully checking the birds before allowing them to enter.

Lice are far more common than mites and spend all their time on the birds. If lice are present, use a nicotine sulphate roost paint on the roosts the first night, and repeat again in ten days. The first treatment will kill all the living lice and the second will kill those hatched after the first treatment.

Interna parasites are much harder to detect, but they can do a great deal of harm and should be checked. On any premises where they have been found or are suspected, give each bird a worming pill at the time of housing. If each bird is given a pill at this time, the birds will be safe as long as they are confined to the house. If it is not done until later, the house will likely be contaminated and further trouble will develop.

CHOOSE FLOORS FOR PURPOSE INTENDED

Don't think of your hard surfaced floors solely in terms of appearance, suggests Miss Caroline Judson, Home Designing Specialist, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Consider comfort, safety, durability and maintenance. There is no best material; satisfaction lies in choosing the right material to fill your requirements. You must first decide what you want in terms of performance. What sort of traffic will it bear—bedroom slippers, muddy work boots, teen-age scuffing, or hard kitchen work?

Wood floors have been a standby for generations and it is quite likely they will continue to be the mainstay for standard flooring in the average home for some time. There are numerous ways of finishing wood floors but the most generally accepted method is to keep the wood close to its natural colour with sufficient finish for easy maintenance. This light finish is accepted not because decoratively it does more for the room but just because of the ease of keeping them clean. Dark floors show dust at once.

Another excellent flooring material is linoleum. The improved design, colours and allover effects now available in linoleums have made them very popular for floor coverings throughout the house. They are no longer limited to the kitchen and bathroom.

Linoleum consists of ground cork, oxidized linseed oil and various chemicals, mixed together and pressed onto a backing of a jute burlap. It may be plain, inset, printed or treated in one of the modern mottled effects. The thicker the linoleum the longer it wears; printed linoleums are comparatively inexpensive, but the design is only on the surface and probably will wear no longer than floor enamel.

A MILLION DIABETICS

Today, because of insulin, a million diabetics live in our country and millions more in other parts of the world. The present outlook for diabetics is hopeful . . . diet restrictions are few and occupations only slightly limited. But diabetics should keep in constant touch with their physician and follow his instructions to the letter in order to lead a happy, normal life. Your health is your personal affair. Make sure of your good health today by having a complete medical checkup.

U.S. APOLOGIZES TO U. OF T. CO-ED

—Central Press Canadian

Ruth Comfort, 21-year-old University of Toronto co-ed, was detained by U.S. immigration authorities for 24 hours on her return from Holland on a student tour. Her detention on Ellis Island, New York, brought a protest by Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong and an apology from the U.S. State department. Miss Comfort says that from the questions asked of her, immigration men thought she was a Communist.

The Week At Ottawa

searching for a place to live.

Debate Over

On Parliament Hill itself there was a steady round of activity last week.

The House of Commons polished off debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne in almost record time and began devoting itself almost exclusively to government legislation.

The address, which merely thanks the governor-general for having read the speech, was adopted without a formal vote. The debate was one of the shortest and quietest in recent sessions and occupied the House for about 10 of its sitting days.

In the past, the opposition parties usually have taken advantage of the debate to move motions of non-confidence in the government. This year, however, only the 13-man C.C.F. party moved an amendment to the address—tantamount to a vote of non-confidence. The C.C.F. asked members to express regret that the government had failed to propose legislation to remove the means test from old-age pensions. The amendment was defeated 135 to 50.

Throughout, the debate was marked mainly by new demands on the government rather than by criticism of government policies.

The government was given more money to spend—another $70,521,100 to be exact.

The Commons voted the government that sum to meet bills until the budget and the estimates of expenditures for the 1949-50 fiscal year are passed. At the last session, members voted the government some $55,000,000 to cover expenditures arising out of Newfoundland's entry into confederation. The vote carried the government through the general election period but the fund was exhausted and more money needed.

The estimated total of this year's expenditures now is $2,343,299,381.

Budget Still Waiting

The new vote will carry the government along until the budget and estimates of expenditures for the fiscal year are passed. They were presented at the last session but were not passed before parliament was dissolved for the election. Finance Minster Abott told the Commons last week that he hoped to reintroduce the budget not later than the middle of October.

One of the main items in the supplementaries presented to the Commons last week announced government plans to advance $4,500,000 to the Canadian Broadcasting Coroporation to help meet the initial cost of television development in Canada. The publicly-owned corporation now will be able to go ahead with plans to erect the first television stations in Montreal and Toronto. The money is due to be repaid from revenues.

Dollar Saving Move

Last week also brought to light Canada's latest move to conserve her dwindling supply of United States dollars. The trade department announced that imports of some U.S. steel products will be restricted.

The steel and iron items restricted are all items being produced in plentiful supply in Canada. Such things as enamel sheeting, in short supply, are being allowed to come in freely. Others are being put on a quota basis.

In the long run it may mean a considerable saving on Canadian dollars since manufacturers will be buying steel and iron right in Canada instead of across the line.

A.M.A. MEMBERS GET $41,000 FOR CLAIMS

More than $41,000 has been paid this year in accident claims under the free insurance provided with membership in the Alberta Motor Association, according to officials of the organization.

During the first six months, the total, which included a number of death claims, amounted to over $27,000. There has been a 50 per cent drop in the last six months, resulting in a claims total of over $13,000.

The A.M.A. provides free insurance in the principal sum of $1,500 increasing at the rate of 10 per cent annually until a maximum of $3,000 is reached. Weekly accident indemnity benefits also are provided.

The free insurance is regarded as one of the features of A.M.A. service.

This year the A.M.A. has reached a record membership total of 87,500, heavy gains having been made by all three branches, with headquarters in Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge. The increase is more than 6,300 in the past year.

There were only 813 commercial failures in Canada in 1948.

LAMB—A FAVOURITE MEAT

Lamb is always an excellent choice for good meals but is particularly a choice at this time of year. Spring lamb used to be a seasonal treat but is now a year-round meat.

Lamb rib or loin chops and leg of lamb are, of course, well known but the shoulder makes a most desirable roast or it may be cut into chops. A rolled breast cut will also make a good roast. Ground lamb, made into patties or a meat loaf are among the less expensive lamb dishes. Lamb shanks are also a good buy. In fact practically every cut of lamb is so tender it may be roasted, broiled or pan-broiled.

Lamb stews have a definite place in a menu well-planned for flavour and variety.

Here are several recipes from the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture. The homemaker will welcome them.

Lamb Ragout

2 pounds stewing lamb
2 tablespoons fat
8 cups hot water
1 large onion, chopped
½ cup uncooked rice
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups canned tomatoes
1 cup drained, canned peas
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon vinegar
2 tablespoons cold water

Wipe lamb with a damp cloth and cut into 1-inch pieces. Fry in fat until lightly browned then add hot water and simmer, covered, for 1½ hours. Add chopped onion, rice, salt and pepper and simmer half an hour longer then add canned tomatoes and peas and cook for 10 minutes. Blend flour to a smooth paste with vinegar and cold water and add to stew, cooking and stirring until thickened, about 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Yield: six servings.

Barbecued Lamb Shanks

3 lamb shanks
Salt and pepper
2 cups water
2 cups cooked noodles or rice
1½ cups Barbecue Sauce (recipe below)

Wipe meat with damp cloth, season with salt and pepper, cover with the water and simmer until tender, about 1½ hours. Remove meat from the bones and cut into small pieces. Place the cooked noodles or rice in a casserole, place meat over top and cover with hot Barbecue Sauce. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., about 30 minutes. Yield: six servings.

Shakes Leg Cramp to Win Lake George Swim

BEN GAZEL
—Central Press Canadian

Ben Gazel of Toronto overcame a leg cramp to win the 20-mile Lake George swimming marathon at Lake George, N.Y. Gazel, a 38-year-old swimming instructor suffered a cramp in his leg after covering about 1½ miles in the chilly water. However he was able to "rub it out" himself while swimming. The triumph gave Gabel first prize of $1,000 plus $125 for winning five of the eight laps. The swimmer completed the marathon in five hours, 59 minutes and 59 seconds.

Barbecue Sauce

1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons fat
1½ tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup water
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1½ tablespoons vinegar
Dash of cayenne pepper
½ cup chili sauce
Salt and pepper to taste

Brown chopped onion in fat. Add remaining ingredients and combine thoroughly. Bring to boil and use as suggested above. Yield: 1½ cups.

Macaroni Lamb Stew

2 pounds stewing lamb
6 cups water
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup uncooked macaroni
1 green pepper, chopped

Wipe lamb with a damp cloth and cut into 1-inch pieces. Add water, salt, and pepper and cook, covered, for 1 hour. Add macaroni and cook for 20 minutes then add chopped green pepper and cook for 10 minutes. Yield: six servings.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Fire may not have cost this town a great amount in property damage during the year but it is up to the public to prevent fires; the fire department can only put them out in most cases.

ELECTION IN MANITOBA THIS FALL

Written Specially for The Star-Chronicle

by Samuel Solomon Canadian Press staff writer

Speculation that a Provincial election in Manitoba would be held this year has been settled by Premier Douglas Campbell. The announcement came following the Manitoba Liberal-Progressive Convention where Mr. Campbell was elected leader of the provincial party. The convention also decided, by a 5-2 margin, to endorse coalition with the provincial progressive conservative and social credit parties.

Nomination day will be October 7 with the election November 10.

Decision to continue coalition was a personal victory for Mr. Campbell, who claimed Manitoba has had good government and that continuation of coalition was "the sensible approach to the future."

A special cabinet meeting later passed orders-in-council authorizing proclamations to bring into force amendments to the Electoral Divisions Act and the Legislative Assembly Act.

Under these acts, constituencies in Manitoba are redistributed so that there will be 57 members in the 23rd legislature instead of 55. The last legislature also had three armed service representatives, which have been dropped.

At dissolution, Premier Campbell's coalition government was supported by 25 Liberal Progressives, eight Progressive Conservatives, two Social Crediters, one Independent and two Service Members. In opposition were: C.C.F. eight; Independent Progressive Conservatives, two; Independent four; L.P.P., one, and one Independent Liberal. Four seats were vacant.

Last barrier to the continuation of coalition was the official decision of the Provincial Progressive Conservatives. That party was scheduled to make known its stand Monday, Oct. 3.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTIZE

A HAPPY OLD AGE

Now that men and women are living longer it is a logical step for people in middle age to make normal preparations for a happy, healthy old age. Regular medical check-ups will prevent the undetected development of dangerous growths or insidious diseases and expert medical advice will assure a properly balanced diet. The declining years can be happy and healthy. Prepare for them intelligently —the younger the better.

CLAIMS THUMB-SUCKING DETRIMENTAL TO TEETH

Psychologists haven't quite persuaded orthodontists that it is proper to let a child suck its thumb, says Dr. A. R. Winn of McGill University's Department of Orthodontics in an article —"Orthodontics and Civilization"—in the current issue of Health, Canada's National Health Magazine.

"They say that stopping the habit will do something to the child's personality, etc., etc., and that the teeth can easily be straightened later," comments Dr. Winn in his contribution to Health. "I wonder if having to live for a number of years behind the deformed face of a habitual thumb-sucker doesn't do something to the personality too?

"Also the thought can't help cropping up that the psychologist doesn't have to do the job of trying to correct displaced teeth, which is often anything but easy; furthermore, he doesn't have to pay for it. Anyway this contains another suggestion for prevention of a certain type of malocclusion of the teeth. If thumb-sucking indicates a craving for more affection on the part of the child, give it more affection, and at the same time stop the habit; not by constant nagging, which won't work, but by constant encouragement."

Dr. Winn suggests a lot of blame for irregular teeth can be traced to civilization—the knife and fork, soft well-cooked foods. These give the jaws less work to do and prevents their proper development. At the present, "na) populations" throughout the world show better developed jaws than civilised ones.

He emphasizes that children should be given tough foods to chew—and that breast-fed babies develop sturdier jaws than bottle-fed infants. Further, the writer states, mouth-breathing changes jaw and facial features. Some irregularities run in families. Prevention in this case, says Dr. Winn is "simply a matter of choosing the right parents."

Much Loss Of Life And Property Avertable

Fire Prevention Week Urges Greater Care

During 1948, 49 men, women and children in Alberta died as a result of fire. In that same year 2,285 fires caused property damage amounting to $3,815,863.00 right here in this province.

These are appalling facts. They serve to emphasize the vital importance of Fire Prevention Week being observed in Canada and the United States from October 9 to October 15.

As pointed out by E. R. Hughes, Fire Commissioner for Alberta, the idea behind Fire Prevention Week is to focus public attention upon our disgraceful loss of life and the awful destruction of property by fire. It is a week in which every agency and individual should make special efforts to prevent fires by eliminating fire hazards in attics and basements, in farmyards and factories, in huts and hotels.

Fire Prevention Week is set aside to bring home to every man, woman and child in Alberta the importance of being careful with fire. Further the habits practiced during the Week must be carried into every succeeding week of the year. Responsibility for preventing fires does not belong to volunteer fire brigades or full-time fire departments; it belongs primarily to the individual. In other words, Prevention is your responsibility, while Protection is the major concern of the fire fighter. This applies whether they are volunteers in a small town or are employed on a full-time basis in our larger centres.

Put it this way: Where you fail in preventing fires the fire-fighter steps in to protect your life and property.

The first fire prevention day was observed in the United States on October 9, 1911. This was the fortieth anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire which in 1871 destroyed 17,000 buildings valued at $168,000,000.00. The purpose was and is to bring to the public a much needed lesson in fire prevention. In 1920, President Woodrow Wilson issued the first national fire prevention day proclamation, and two years later President Harding proclaimed the whole week containing October 9 to be observed as Fire Prevention Week by "every man, woman and child, not only during the week designated in this pronouncement, but throughout every house on every day of the year."

Since 1922 Fire Prevention Week, the anniversary of the Chicago fire, has been observed each year in every province and state, every city and town in the United States and Canada. It is now thoroughly established as the beginning of an entire year of intensive fire-safety work.

In the official proclamation designating October 9 to 15 as Fire Prevention Week in Canada, it is recommended "to all loving subjects that at some time during that week as may be found most practicable, all dwellings, public buildings, stores, warehouses and factories be carefully inspected by their occupants and all conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fires be removed." Other recommendations cover inspections of theatres, hotels, hospitals and other institutional buildings; fire drills for school children and factory workers; special fire-safety lessons by school teachers or local officials; and by means of public meetings, the press, radio and motion pictures to "impress upon the citizens the national importance of protecting life and property from loss by fire."

The lesson of Fire Prevention Week is two-fold; first, to eliminate all possible fire hazards around your home and place of business; and second, to resolve to be careful with fire . . . man's best friend and greatest enemy.

Look around your home, your property, warehouse or factory, and remove or correct any condition which may possibly cause a fire. Make careful handling of fire an essential part of your daily lives. It's as simple as that.

The route of the Interprovincial Pipe Line Co.'s 1,150-mile line from Edmonton to the Great Lakes is shown above along with size, capacity, and other details. The company was sponsored by Imperial Oil. Total cost will be $60,000,000. Over the rocky, broken route to the Canadian lakehead, which is 130 miles longer, the cost would have been at least an additional $10,000,000 plus about $400,000 extra each year in carrying charges. Officials state this is prohibitive. The line to Superior takes the most direct route possible avoiding towns and other pipe line obstacles, thus providing the low-cost transportation necessary to bring western oil into eastern markets. It will aid the U.S. exchange situation by an estimated $35 millions a year by displacing foreign supplies. Merely to fill the line will take 1,838,000 barrels—64,330,000 gallons—and it will take 26 days for a barrel of oil to move from Edmonton to the terminus at Superior, Wisconsin. Here storage will be built to permit winter accumulation of oil. During the seven-month open season oil will be picked up by tanker for southwestern Ontario refineries. First oil should reach Regina in the fall of 1950 and movement to Superior is planned by early in 1951.

We welcome back Mr. Alva Johnson from the coast who intends to visit here for a while.

Already-divided Germany saw itself being split even further last Friday.

In an unheralded move, Soviet authorities set up a new "German Democratic Republic" for their zone of occupation. The new regime was set up without the benefit of election in the Russian zone.

Its self-appointed parliamentary body, a 400-member "People's Council" made up of Communists and sympathisers named last May in a single-ticket election, adopted a 20-point manifesto.

This statement demanded abolition of the Bonn Republic in western Germany and the statute providing for western supervision of the Ruhr, alignment of German politics and trade with the east, a peace treaty and withdrawal of occupation troops.

The chancellor (prime minister) of the new government is Otto Grotewohl, co-chairman of the Socialist Unity (Communist) party.

Repercussions in western Germany were prompt.

At Bonn, seat of the rival allied-approved "German Federal Republic," Chancellor Adenauer said the new government "lacks the only legality which gives a state its legitimate foundation, namely the legitimization by the people."

Deputy Rudolf Katz said the new Soviet creation was a "Quisling government."

And Mayor Ernst Reuter of western Berlin on Saturday called the city assembly to consider the new situation. He appealed to all Berliners to demand "free elections in all of Berlin and a democratic Germany within a peaceful Europe."

Meanwhile Russian and German Communists met secretly on Saturday and their talks may spell embarrassment for the west German government.

Withdrawal of occupation troops from the Soviet sector of Berlin was expected within two weeks. Such a move would set the stage for a possible declaration later by Russia that no soldiers of any foreign power should occupy Berlin.

The cabinet of the Chinese Nationalist government on Saturday called for the arrest of Madame Sun Yat-Sen, widow of the founder of the Chinese Republic and her name was listed with those of 52 Communists or Communist sympathizers.

A sister-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Madame Sun is at present in Peking, the Communist capital of China. She had been elected one of six vice-chairmen of the "Central People's Government of the Republic of China."

Her husband was China's greatest hero in its wars of independence and emergence as a constitutional state. Chiang Kai-shek was one of his most trusted lieutenants in those early days of struggle for the birth of the Chinese Republic.

And in Canton, Nationalist stronghold, Chinese began streaming out of the city on Saturday as the front to the north showed signs of breaking under attacking Red armies.

Canton diplomats said they expected to be told this week that the Nationalist capital was being moved to Chungking, wartime capital in western China.

As the United States soft coal strike moved into its 26th day last Saturday, soft-coal operators followed government urgings and moved to resume contract talks with John L. Lewis in an effort to end the costly strike.

Conciliation director Cyrus C. Ching told the boss of the United Mine Workers and the representatives of the mine owners that "each day brings the United States closer to a crisis."

With coal stocks fast dwindling, a government spokesman in Washington said that a month of continued strikes in the coal and steel industries would seriously threaten the national welfare.

Canada won the world softball title for the first time this year but unless Dominion officials fall in line with rule changes being instituted in the United States, chances of successfully defending the title don't look too bright.

As Canada has only one entry again at dozens from across the border, naturally American rules govern the world series. Yet there is a strong indication that the Dominion won't fall in line with the latest switches.

For years teams governed by the American Softball Association used gloves but only in the last few seasons have Canadian teams followed suit. As soon as they did, fielding improved and Canada's chances in world tournament competition did likewise.

But it was not until this fall in Little Rock, Ark., that Toronto Tip Tops came out on top of a star-studded entry list to win the world title.

After Manager Sam Shefsky saw his Toppers beaten consistently by big Charlie Justice of Joe Louis' Detroit Punchers, he decided on the theory "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em" and this year he brought the Negro mound ace to Toronto.

Not only did Cahrlie dominate proceedings in the Toronto Beaches Fastball League, Canada's premier softball circuit, but he was equally effective against the best competition the United States had to offer. Tip Tops went through the tournament unbeaten and the opposition failed to score a run off Justice. The only run scored against the champions came in the final game, against Russ Johnson, imported from Hamilton.

Longer Pitch

But next year the pitcher's mound in U.S. softball will be 46 feet from home plate instead of 42. The move was directed at making it more of a batter's game as the softball solons feared the fans might eventually tire of a game in which hits are almost a novelty.

The rule should help the batters because they will have more time to watch the ball travel and get set for a clout. But it might work in reverse if the additional three feet gives pitchers a better chance to break their curves.

There has been nothing official done in Canada so far on the American rule change but the feeling around the Beaches League executive is that the move wouldn't be advisable.

The ball used in Canada is 2½ ounces heavier than the American ball and officials fear that pitchers would lose most of their effectiveness over the greater distance. And there doesn't seem much chance that the Canadians will adopt the American ball.

The staunch attitude of not following in the footsteps of their American brothers at every turn may be commendable, but if the rules don't conform, Canadian pitchers will be at a disadvantage when they have to throw an additional three feet in international competition.

And incidentally, Shefsky is so happy about his team's triumph, he's hoping to persuade the A.S.A. to stage its world tourney in Toronto next fall at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Barbara Ann Scott, the world's greatest figure skater, who has won more titles than any other woman skater in history, will appear in Edmonton for the first time in a five-night stand (plus Saturday matinee) November 8 - 12.

"Little Miss Canada" as she is known in the United States, will be the feature star of the newest ice show and the only major ice attraction originating in Canada and featuring Canadian skating talent. As star of Sensations of 1950, Barbara Ann is complying with her wish to visit Canadian Centers before accepting one of several tempting offers from Hollywood. She returned recently from Hollywood where she thrilled 50,000 persons with a scintillating performance at the Hollywood Bowl.

Supporting Barbara Ann is a cast of 50 of the world's finest skaters many of whom are the products of Canadian skating clubs from coast to coast. Particularly impressive will be the performance of twenty beautiful Canadian girls regarded as top-notchers in the fancy skating world.

In an effort to give out-of-towners an even break in the purchase of tickets, the Edmonton Gardens management has announced mail order ticket sales two weeks in advance of the direct sales. There is no advance in prices despite the anticipated heavy demand for tickets. Anyone intending to make the trip to Edmonton is urgently requested to write the Edmonton Gardens immediately, specifying date of show and enclosing the amount for tickets which are priced at $1.50 and $2.00.

GRIMES REHEARSAL

This photograph shows a section of the CBC Opera Company during a rehearsal for Peter Grimes by Benjamin Britten, in the CBC's concert studios in Toronto. The broadcast performance of the opera tonight, a Canadian premiere, will be from Massey Hall in Toronto. At the lower right are seen the principals, and behind them (not seen) are the forty members of the chorus.

PILCHARD IS POPULAR WHEN NAMED SARDINE

PENZANCE, England — Cornwall fishermen are considering throwing the word "pilchard" out of their vocabularly.

Instead, they would call "sardines" the small herring-like fish they catch in batches of 50,000,000.

Italy has been the traditional market for Cornish pilchards. But that market is slowly drying up.

Industry leaders think that people at home would buy Cornish pilchards if only they were called sardines. They are campaigning also for refrigerated freight cars to get the catch into the stores in good condition.

Almost all urban homes in Canada have electrical service, but only one farm in five is so equipped.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The devaluation of the pound sterling constitutes an outrageous act of treachery against the British people everywhere. It is a racket of the first magnitude. This may seem a harsh statement unless there is an understanding both of the effects of the devaluation and of the general policy involved.

In the inspired propaganda which accompanied the devaluation announcement and the carefully arranged stage setting for this action by the Washington conferences and the subsequent statements that were released, great care has been taken to emphasize the advantages which devaluation of the pound will have on stimulating British exports to dollar countries. This supposedly will help Great Britain to secure much-needed imports.

What has been carefully concealed are the results, and the actual purpose, of this act of treachery:

First, the devaluation of the pound in relation to the U.S. dollar by a further 30% will have the effect of increasing the British debt to her U.S. creditors (i.e. the financial corporations of Wall and Pine Streets) by over 70% above the per rate of exchange, and by over 40 per cent above the rate of exchange ruling immediately before the announcement.

This means that the people of Great Britain will have to work for nothing to produce wealth in the form of production for her creditors to the extent of 40% over and above what they were doing immediately before the devaluation.

Secondly the British people will be forced to produce goods for export to an even greater extent than previously in order to get the imports they need. Every bushel of U.S. wheat, every U.S. film, every U.S. product they require will have to be paid for by over 40% more in British made goods.

Put in another way, immediately before the devaluation the people of Great Britain had to export goods costing £8 to produce in order to obtain a credit of $20.00 U.S. dollars. Now they will have to export goods costing £7 to obtain a credit of $20.00 U.S. dollars either for the purchase of goods or for the payment of debt.

Thus the people of Great Britain, like the slave labour of other days will be forced to work harder so that the proceeds of their labour may be given away without any return.

Thirdly, because imports will cost more, and prices will increase and therefore purchasing power in Great Britain will be curtailed, British manufacturers will, to an increasing extent, be obliged to produce for export markets thus causing even greater hardships to the British people.

This is apart from the appalling price the people of Great Britain are having to pay for the disastrous luxury of a Socialist regime—for every penny paid in the crushing taxation being imposed upon individuals means that, in the final analysis, the workers in the field of production are giving the equivalent in the wealth they produce to "the State"—i.e. primarily to those who benefit from the debt and tax structure of the State.

Time was when British people sang lustily that "Britons never, never will be slaves." The stark fact is that the British people have been reduced to abject slavery.

That this has been achieved by the pursuit of a pre-meditated and deliberate conspiracy, there can be no doubt. It forms part of a general plot to impose upon the entire world an absolute tyranny modelled on the pattern of the Soviet Union. And because Great Britain and the ideal of democracy inherent in the British social structure were formidable barriers to the achievement of that goal, a full scale offensive against them has been the focus of higher international politics.

The plight of Great Britain—and, for that matter of all Europe—has not been caused by the American people or the U.S. Government, nor by any people or government as such, but by the hidden Dark Forces in the world who are pursuing a deliberate conspiracy for the enslavement of humanity. Until people recognize the identity of these forces and the nature of the conspiracy they are pursuing, they will continue to fall helpless victims to their machinations.

Such an understanding will open people's eyes, not only to the implications of such action as this devaluation racket, but to the powers controlling governments and international affairs and the terrible peril of the situation which is developing.

ECONOMIST.

DRIVING HAZARDS ARE STILL TAKING TOLL

Approach of the fall driving season brings to light two dangers which are pointed out by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

One of the most serious is the lurking menace of carbon monoxide which takes a heavy toll every year. This danger can be guarded against by keeping the car windows open in cold weather when the vehicle is being warmed up.

Too often, carbon monoxide does its deadly work in garages when all car windows are closed and there is no outlet for poisonous fumes.

A.M.A. officials also stress the need of avoiding accidents at level railway crossings, which continue to take an alarming toll of motorists.

With a shorter period of daylight approaching, there is need to be on the alert at every railway crossing. Take no chances. Take it easy at these crossings just the same as at every other danger spot on the highway.

Also, the observance of safe driving principles at all times includes special care at railway crossings. Thousands of lives are taken at these crossings in the U.S. and Canada every year; They are a deadly menace just the same as lurking carbon monoxide.

DEATHS FROM TB

Sixteen people in Canada die from tuberculosis each day of the year. Although this figure represents a tremendous decrease from a few years ago it is still far too high for a disease which, if discovered early, can almost always be cured. Chest x-rays locate TB germs before outward symptoms become apparent. Have one as soon as you can. If you suspect you have TB, go to a doctor at once. Delay may endanger your own life and the lives of your family.
